

Student Learning Outcomes

College: Education

Department: Special Education and Child Development

Degree Program: PhD in Special Education

- 1) Special Education PhD Candidates will demonstrate an understanding of the professional and contextual knowledge expected in their fields; and use data, current research and technology to inform their practices.
- 2) Special Education PhD Candidates will demonstrate professional behaviors consistent with fairness and the belief that all students can learn, including creating caring, supportive learning environments, encouraging student-directed learning, and making adjustments to their own professional dispositions when necessary.
- 3) Special Education PhD Candidates will establish positive educational environments that support and build upon the developmental levels of students, the diversity of students, families, and communities; and the policy contexts within which they work.
